

BRIEFS.

Secretary Root may consider himself a Pan-American congressman at large.—Atlanta Journal.

Mr. Bryan continues to disprove the old adage that a rolling stone gathers no moss.—Kansa. City Star.

Grand Duke Nicholas Nicolaievitch may thank his stars that his sharpshooters couldn't snarpsheet.—Philadelphia Record.

Mr. Bryan has already carried Arkansas, Indiana, Iowa, Missouri, Ohio, South Dakota, and Colonel Watterson.—Boston Globe.

If you force it on 'em, either Chairman Griggs or Chairman Sherman will accept the contributions of more than $1.—Baltimore Sun.

The country has still to hear of somebody offering Chairman Jim Sherman a larger sum than the $1 asked for.—Washington Post.

A noted financier saved a drowning man the other day. It's different when they sink in Wall street, however.—Denver Republican.

When Mr. Root contemplates all that Uruguayan enthusiasm among people who, by the very nature of their situation, couldn't vote for him, it seems almost a wanton waste.—Indianapolis News.

"There is scarcely any discord in the Democratic party."—Ben Tillman. Brother Ben lives a long ways from New York.—Brooklyn Times.

In accepting the invitation to attend the Cowes regatta, King Alfonso probably stipulated that there should be no bouquets.—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

It is sad, but unfortunately true, as a general thing, that the wrecked bank officer who surrenders is the one who hasn't got the money.—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

Out of 200 men, only 12 passed the meat-inspectors' examination. The government is determined that the inspectors shall be of the best, even if the meat isn't.—Washington Post.

We cheerfully recommend the new fad of ballooning to the automobile

"scorchers." It is fully as dangerous to themselves, but not so much so to the public.—Cleveland Leader.

It is deemed quite probable that Grover Cleveland will contribute his dollar to the Democratic campaign fund—after he has seen what sort of candidate and platform that party puts up.—Pittsburg Dispatch.

LOCAL PRESS SCINTILLATIONS.

The Literary Digest of last week reproduces another of Lovey's cartoon's in the Salt Lake Herald. The cartoon has reference to the new republican plan of one dollar popular subscriptions to the campaign fund and illustrates the approval of the plutocrats led by President Roosevelt, who get off with a contribution so slight. It is needless to say the cartoon has more than ordinary merit, or it would not have been reproduced in the Literary Digest.

It is with regret that we learn that Snyder L. Hague of the Tribune, is in the hospital sick with typhoid fever. He had not been feeling just himself for a week or two and on Tuesday the fever developed to such an extent that he found it necessary to go to the Holy Cross hospital, where the good Sisters will no doubt nurse him back to health.

Editor Joel Priest of the Herald has gone to Goldfield for a few days' vacation. There is to be a prize fight at Goldfield next Monday. When a particularly choice assignment comes up, the boys say, Joel generally gets in on it.

The fact that Todkins will not appear in the Press club play "The Old Bedstead," will not, the boys hope, cause its failure. Lon Had-dock can sustain the character of Sue Brette at least as well as the other chap, and Toddy needed a vacation for a few days at Goldfield at this particular time. Toddy was mistaken when he feared that his absence would cause disaster.

Education and Ability.

Prof. Felix Adler, founder of the Society of Ethical Culture, and formerly a member of the Cornell faculty, not long ago was speaking of a position in an educational institution. It was vacant, and the professor was to select an incumbent. "I am not quite sure," he said, "whether to get a man of education from New England or a man of ability from Chicago."

It's but a short time until you'll feel the sting of approaching winter. It's but a short time now until you'll be looking for something to take the sting out of the air, without stinging your purse too hard.
